DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Raymond Crawford House is located on a hillside below Russell Road in eastern Garrett County. The house commands a view of the valley of Laurel Run to the NE and Savage River State Forest to the NW.

The ground slopes down steeply from SW to NE, creating a full basement story on the NE elevation.

The house is a two-story, gable-roofed, ell-plan dwelling measuring three bays across the NE elevation. The side elevations measure one bay each and the ell measures two bays by one bay. The ell extends from the SW elevation of the main block and the entrance is on the main block where it and the ell join. An ell porch covers the first floor on the SW and SE elevations and an addition covers the first and basement floors of the NE elevation.

The house rests on an uncoursed stone foundation and is covered with brown brick-patterned asphalt siding over German siding. The German siding is still visible on the first floor under the ell porch. The windows are all four over four sash with plain board surrounds.

The roof is covered with asphalt shingles and the cornice returns on the gable ends. The house has one cinderblock stove chimney on the NW elevation where the ell and the main block meet. On the NW elevation a one-story, shed roofed addition extends one bay to the NW. The addition is covered with brown brick-patterned asphalt and has two-paned sliding windows. On its NW elevation is a cinderblock stove chimney.

The ell porch on the SW and SE elevations has a shed roof covered with asphalt shingle and is supported by square wooden posts. A two-story (basement and first floor), hipped-roof addition, measuring one bay wide by four long, covers the NE elevation. It is covered as is the rest of the house, and may conceal the house's original entrance.

A frame bank barn and several frame outbuildings complete the site.

BUILDER/ [REDACTED] Bert Barker

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

According to the owners, this house was constructed by an itinerant house builder named Bert Barker. Barker evidently worked for room and board, plus some monetary consideration, and then moved on. The house is representative of a common Garrett County house type: three bay main block with a rear extension.
